RELIEF FOR TAXPAYERS

Two Millions a Year More for School Tax Relief--Bellefonte

REPUBLICAN HELPED

Four Million More Than Ever Heretofore Appropriated for the Biennial Period.

FIFTEEN MILLIONS FOR THE SCHOOLS

(Theodore P. Rynder, formerly of Centre County, who started the movement for Free School Books, originated and carried to success this great movement for School Tax Relief.)

Mr. Theodore P. Rynder has been in Bellefonte and Milesburg during the last week. Knowing that he had been in Harrisburg during the Legislative session the Republican asked him for an interview. To our question,

"What have been the most important things accomplished by this legislature? he replied.

"The most notable things are the two-cent railroad fare, trolley freight, and rising above all else the appropriation of fifteen millions of dollars to the schools, being four millions more than the largest ever before appropriated to the common schools."

"Why do you call it the most notable?" queried the Republican.

"Because, first, it is the largest amount of tax-relief ever granted to the people of this State, and second, because it initiates a new policy in our State or any State, the principle that "Public Revenues must pay for Public Education."

"To what extent will this prove a tax-relief to the people?" asked our reporter.

"Just one quarter of the cost of the salaries of the teachers. This does not in any way interfere with the duties or privileges of Boards of Directors—except it reduces the amount of tax they must levy against the farms, homes and real estate by two millions of dollars a year. Thus the homes of the widow, the miner, the mechanic and the farmer whether he works his own farm or it is done by a renter is relieved by two millions a year of the burden of school tax, But this is but the beginning of the greatest tax-relief and educational advancement ever known to this or any country.

We will go straight forward in this movement until the whole sixteen or seventeen millions of teachers salaries and books and supplies are paid from public revenues (relieving local taxation to that extent) and being the beginning of a greater movement that will build and keep a graded high school in every school district in the State, with a public town hall and a free public library for the education and use of the people.

"Is that possible—it seems like a dream? "said the reporter.

"There is nothing dreamy or chimerical about it when you consider the great wealth and greater resources of our State. Equalization of taxation will bring it. Why the water-power of the State, paying a royalty to the State will in a few years support the common schools."

"How does this compare with the free text book system you started?"

"That system in its fifteen years of operation has saved the individual school book buyers forty millions of dollars. This movement is as $16,000,000 is to $2,500,000—thus this is six times as great and easier of accomplishment.

"Why don't you make that a Centre County movement as this was. You have a Centre County wife who is reputed to be an able assistant?" said our reporter.

"Well my wife has ever been my chief counsellor in this and all other public matters as all our friends know. But I have had other able friends, chief among whom was the late Mr. Edward T. Tuten, who rendered invaluable advice and public assistance. And here let me say that The Republican is the only paper in Central Pennsylvania that gave me any assistance in this movement. I ask your continued assistance in its entire accomplishment."

THE MAY TERM OF COURT.

Judge Ellis L. Orvis on the Bench—C. P. Long Foreman of the Grand Jury.

The regular May term of Court opened Monday morning at ten o'clock with Judge Ellis L. Orvis on the bench. The court officers were in their usual places including the Court Stenographer Mayor Gilbert Burrows of Sunbury. The first thing in order was the presentation of petitions in both the Court of Quarter Sessions and Orphan's Court. Several guardians were appointed for minors. James C. Furst, the auditor appointed by the Court in the Bellefonte, Aaronsburg and Youngmanstown Turnpike Company, submitted his report to court.

The constables of the different townships then came forward and made their quarterly reports after which the list of grand and traverse jurors was called. C. P. Long of Spring Mills, was made foreman of the grand jury. The wisdom of thee Court in selecting Mr. Long, was made manifest by the promptness which they turned out the bills. All were in due form and satisfactory to the Court.

The following cases were disposed of Monday.

Com. vs Charles T. Crust. Charge betrayal: Prosecutrix Anna Heaton. Defendant plead guilty and usual sentence was imposed.

Com. vs Harry G. Boas. Charge assault and battery. Prosecutrix, Mrs. Boas. There were two cases against the defendent. He plead guilty to both charges. Court fined him $1.00 and costs of prosecution on first charge. In the second case he suspended sentence pending good behavior. Mr. Boas is a man with a large family and lives in Bush Addition. He is a hard worker and provides well for his family. The Court was disposed to be lenient with him on this account.

Com. vs John Dullen. Charge assault and battery. Prosecutor Davis Frain. The parties reside in Marion township. The jury found him "not guilty" and divided the costs between Dullen and Frain.

THE FROM CASE.

All witnesses summoned to appear in the case of Jacob From, accused of the murder of Josiah Dale, have been notified by the Commonwealth not to appear. This action indicates that the case against From has fallen through, and that Jacob From will be discharged from custody before the week is over.

From was arrested by Detective A. L. Millard, of Philadelphia, after detectives had worked on the case for six weeks, but the evidence against him was weak and circumstantial.

Boys you will get into Trouble.

A lot of little boys, and some not so little, throw a good many stones on Bishop street near the High school. Last week a little girl was struck on the head and very seriously injured. Several large windows have been broken, and last Saturday a lady was sitting on her front porch, when some boy threw a large stone. She threw up her hand and was hit, cutting her hand very badly. Now boys this will have to be stopped your names have been sent into this office and if these acts are kept up we will notify the authorities in regards to the matter. The parents of these boys should take them into a back room and introduce them to a razor strap, perhaps that would have some effect on them. It would be better for them to do that than to pay a damage suit, or a doctor bill Remember we don't want to hear of it again.

LUTHERANS AT SUNBURY

WILL Meet at Sunbury in Annual Convention.

DR. BAUSLIN TO PRESIDE

MANY DELEGATES WERE PRESENT.

Philadelphia, May 20th.—The General Synod, one of the several general bodies of the Lutheran Church, will meet in Sunbury, next Wednesday for it's forty third convention. Delegates from many states will be present and will legislate for 1,307 ministers, 1,729 communicant members. The Rev. Dr. I. H. Bauslin of Springfield, O., president of the synod, will preach the opening sermon Wednesday evening.

Among the matters of interest to come before the meeting will be the proposition to so enlarge the field of the board of education as to include all the Lutheran educational institutions in this country. Hitherto this board has had its operations restricted to those colleges and seminaries of more recent establishment presenting their claims to the church and aiding them in their financial strengthening. Each college has had a special day when contributions were asked for it in the territory of those synods represented in its board of directors. It is proposed to have all this work under the direction of the board, and also in other ways to secure a greater concentration of effect in the prosecution of the educational work of the denomination.

A recommendation from the board of publication for the publication of a new church magazine will be presented. It is proposed that it have sufficient number of departments to present all the missionary, benevolent, charitable, educational and other activities of the church.

Among those prominently mentioned for the president of the synod are G. U. Wenner, D. D., and J. B. Remensnyder, D. D., LL. D., both of New York City, and S. W. Owen, D. D., of Hagerstown, Md.

MRS. JAMES WEAVER GONE TO REST.

Passed away on Saturday Evening at Seven O'clock.

When the summons came on Saturday evening for Mrs. Weaver to pass into that other world she was ready and waiting.

When a small girl she united with the Methodist Episcopal church and throughout her entire life she has been an earnest worker for the Master, never once growing cold in the labor of endevoring to do her part for him whom she loved to serve. Mrs. Weaver was a kind neighbor and in time of sickness and need she was always ready to lend a helping hand.

Mary Hall Weaver was born at Milesburg and was a daughter of Sheriff Hall, at one time a prominent citizen of Centre county. She was the wife of Colonel James F. Weaver who preceeded her to that Home above about three years ago. After the death of her husband Mrs. Weaver and her son and daughter moved from the old homestead east of Milesburg to a little home in Milesburg. She was in her 76th year.

Mrs. Weaver was charter member of the Bald Eagle Grange and has filled the offices of Pomona, Flora and Ceres in a most acceptable manner. She leaves to mourn her death three children, Willis of Winber, James and Lizzie at home.

The funeral occured on Wednesday morning from her home at Milesburg at ten o'clock. Rev. M. C. Piper pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church officiating. Interment in the Union cemetery at Bellefonte.

June 14 is Flag Day.

Friday, June 14, will be Flag Day, and the American Flag Association, agreeable to its custom for the past ten years, is calling the attention of the public to the day as being the anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag of the United States. The association urges everybody's co-operation in securing the widest possible observance this year.

OF GREAT BENEFIT TO BELLEFONTE.

Employs High Class Mechanics and pays Excellent Wages.

We don't know of any other manufacturing establishment throughout this portion of the state that has been running steadier and pays higher wages than the J. Howard Lingle Company.

For the past thirty three years these machine shops and foundrys have been giving employment to Bellefonte people. During the dull season when other manufacturing plants close down and lay their men off, the Lingle Company would keep on running just the same as ever. From a small plant the machine shops and foundrys have grown to be among the largest found in cities where hundreds of men are employed.

Mr Lingle has been visited by fire twice and both times he has come out of the ruins only to build larger and greater shops than he has had before.

The borough are now laying larger pipes on Reynolds avenue and propose to lay six inch pipe as far as the old pipe they have will reach and the balance of distance to J. H. Lingle & Co. plant of five inch. J. H. Lingle & Co. are making two fire hydrants and will place them near their plant at their own expense, but are going to ask the borough to furnish and lay the pipe, so that if they are ever visited by fire again they will have a chance to fight the flames. At the last fire the water supplied by the borough was insufficient to fight the fire, the result was the company were heavy loosers.

He controls an establishment that is a credit to the town and county. He employs on an average of 150 men the year round that demand the highest wages ranging from two to six dollars a day. Every man employed in his works is considered a mechanic. They must be bright and intelligent as the work demanded of them is of a high class character and each man has his own separate part to perform and unless he is a clear headed fellow and can use his own brain, he cannot do the work required of him. It is certainly worth your time to go out to this manufacturing plant and pass through the different departments, and notice the men as they work. And when you come away you will be fully convinced that every man is a skilled mechanic and performs his duty as required. We say again the place is a credit to old Bellefonte and should be given the towns heartiest support and encouragement. No matter where you go over the state you hear people speak of Lingle's foundry and machine shops.

The J. Howard Lingle Company does a great deal of work for the Baldwin Locomotive Works of Philadelphia, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and a dozen other different large concerns send their highest price work to this place to be manufactured. This company manufactures as a speciality what is known as the Helve hammer for which there is a great demand and at the present time a half dozen orders from different portions of Pennsylvania are being filled at this place.

The pattern shops, core rooms, machine shops, foundrys, black-smith shops, clipping and cleaning rooms are all fitted out with the latest improved machinery and tools.

You can generally tell when this firm pays at their plant, as the stores in the town are busy and the men all spend their money right here in the "burg." Most every one in the town derives some benefit from the money paid out from this establishment. We congratulate Mr. Lingle in the manner in which he has so successfully conducted his business, and it is our purpose to "booster" along in every way possible, we are only too sorry that we haven't more Howard Lingles on Bellefonte. If we had the old town would boom and every one would be happy and making money. We only hope and wish that his business will continue to prosper and grow so that some day he will have to employ 1000 men. Give him a chance and he will make it good.

Reptile and Rat in a Duel.

A blacksnake and a rat fought a duel to the death in Abraham Stoneback's granary at Allentown. Stoneback, up in the haymow, looked on fascinated. The rat, eludeing the snake's first lightning like spring, leaped on the serpents back and bit it as savagely as possible. Then the air seemed to be full of snakes and rats, so rapidly did the serpent writhe and hiss, and the rat leap and squeal. The snake, bleeding from a dozen wounds, at last caught the rat in its coils and squeezed the life out of it; then with a few convusive struggles, expired itself.

An Old Deed.

A deed executed in 1791 was entered for record in the recorder's office of Williamsport Wednesday. It is for a tract of land in Muncy township and was given by Henry Shoemaker and wife to John Beaver and Jacob Carter. The consideration named is 14 pounds. The document is in a good state of preservation, and is written on sheep skin.

To take Special Course.

Dr. G. D. Green, one of Lock Haven's prominent physicians, left Thursday for Philadelphia where he will take a special course in surgery, bacteriology and X-ray work at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Green expects to be absent from that city until about June 15.

CLARENCE THE SCENE OF ACTION

Dagos Want to Run Affairs but got Stung.

Following closely upon the heels of the mysterious death of Dave Chambers' magnificent horses that occured on Wednesday evening at Clarence is the miniature riot that a bunch of "dagos" started but before it ended (which was a very short duration) two fellows felt like handing in their checks.

Palmer & Company of Clearfield have the contract to lay 1½ miles of state road betwen Clarence and Snow Shoe and they had employed about ten Italians to do the work. On Wednesday six of these sons of Italy did something that was not right and the boss of the job Bill Laughlin gave them their time. They were paid off and sent home The other four came on the next morning and demanded their money, saying that they were going to quit and wanted their dough. That was alright, they could quit, but should have been given 24 hours to get out of the land. But Laughlin did not have the money handy to pay them just then, and told them they would have to wait. At this statement the "Bo-bunks" flew off the handle and started raising a little,—Bill, telephoned to Snow Shoe and Clarence for help, and Squire Zindle swore out a warrant for their arrest, and with Dave Chambers, Art Budinger and several others they started with the Ikes for the Squire's office for a hearing. All at once the Americans were surprised by being attacked in the rear by the other Italians. They had picks, shovels and stones. Three got at Dave Chambers with up-raised picks ready to strike him, and if Dave hadn't of had a gun, he would have been "resting" very peacefully today. But as luck had it he had taken a six shooter with him, and when these Dagos drew back to hit him, Dave let go, one of the bullets went through the fellow's coat collar, and made his skin a little browner than it was, and the other fellow was cracked across the head with the butt of the gun, and the other coward took to his heels and ran like a deer. The men arrested first, were brought to Bellefonte and landed in jail. They were in charge of Constable Rollin McCartney and Deputy Joe Wade. The Italian that was shot was taken to the office of Dr. Neff where his injuries were dressed. The next time they will know enough to mind their own business and not go monkeying around the old hunters at Clarence. For if they do, some one will be mourning friends who will suddenly passed away.

Many Stockholders women.

Official figures show that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has 45,496 shareholders, the largest number in its history, and twice as many as it had 10 years ago. The average number of shares held is 137. Of the total number of shareholders, 21,023 are women. The shareholders, who are of the record of May 4, will participate in the 3½ per cent semi-annual dividend payable May 31, which will amount to $10,906,784. Figures showing the dividends paid by the Pennsylvania in the last 10 years furnish interesting comparisons. In 1906 the dividend paid amounted to three times that paid in 1897. The increases in wages granted by the company in the last few months amount annually to more than the total dividend of something over $12,000,000, paid in 1905.

With the semi annual dividend of 3½ per cent payable May 31, the Pennsylvania will have paid out $139,913,365 in dividends in the past 10 years. No less than 200,000 people are benifited by the prosperity of the road, as shown in dividends, while about 600,000 men, women and children are dependent upon the company lines for a livelihood.

Party at the Fish Hatchery.

The Pennsylvania Fish Hatchery at Pleasant Gap seems to be the mecca these beautiful Sundays for young and old people to visit. On Sunday several hundred people visited this place from over the county. Supt. Fuller and his men have the grounds fixed up in a magnificent manner and certainly is a pleasant place to go. On Sunday a party of young folks from Zion took their suppers and drove to the hatchery and from all accounts and from what we noticed they certainly were having a royal time. The party was composed of the following young ladies and gentlemen: Misses Minnie Garbrick, Elizabeth Shaeffer, Mable Garbrick, Rebecca Glossner, Katura Long, Grace Shearer, John Hockman, Lloyd White, Joel Shaeffer, Merrill Kerstetter and Arthur Vonada.

The National Protective Legion.

The National Protective Legion No. 1819 of Bellefonte held a very successful meeting in the Undine Hall Thursday evening, and through the interesting efforts of the members, (who are ever on the alert for promoting the welfare of the order) and Deputies Brown and Radcliff, of Jersey Shore, who have been with us the past week, succeeded in voting into membership 24 new members making a total of 126 certificates in force, since the local order was instituted Feb. 21, 1907.

We are pleased to see so many of our friends who are taking so active an interest in the plan and workings of our order, nd we heartily welcome them into our midst and earnestly solicite the membership of others, who have not already taken up the work, and ask them to study carefully the plan of the National Protective Legion, which offers to the wage earner of the country, both men and women an opportunity to save and invest for the future a small portion of his or her monthly earnings.

For a small sum invested each month of from $1;00 to $4.00 is provided for its members in case of sickness or accident and for his family at death, but you do not have to die to win, as each five years it pays a dividend.

The Legion is rapidly coming to the front as one of the leading faternal institutions of the country.

It is an old and reliable co-operative institution, having had 17 years of experience and purely co-operative in its form of management. It is incorporated under the insurance laws of the State of New York. Home office Waverly N. Y. we have a membership of over 220,000 members and are doing business in the greater part of the United States. The Legion is the originator of this form of insurance which is meeting with approval throughout the U. S. as it pays the member while living.

We ask you to read our literature carefully and learn our plan and invite you to join us in the work of our noble order the N. P. L.

Farmer Fought Snakes.

Joseph Bower, residing in the North side of Nippenose valley Monday had a battle royal with two of the largest black snakes ever seen in the valley. Bower came off victorious and killed the two reptiles in a hand to hand encounter. He was working along the mountain trimming up some logs. In turning one of the logs there appeared to view two snakes of more than ordinary proportion. The snake showed fight at being disturbed but were soon dispatched. Upon taking them to his home Mr. Bower found that the reptiles measured six feet, nine inches, and seven feet, six inches.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them; and in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the almost marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements, caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines, and physicians had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Mill Hall Park wants Business Men's Pic nic

A petition is being circulated among the business and professional men of this city, as well as the suburbs and adjoining towns in the county to ask the general committee of the Clinton and Centre County Business Men's association to this year hold the big picnic in Mill Hall park instead of at Hecla park, as has been the case annually for the past ten years. The petition is meeting with the hearty approval of business men in general and nearly all are adding their signature thereto.

Mill Hall park is so situated that it is easy of access from B. E. V., New York Central and Central Railroad of Pennsylvania. In fact the terminus of the latter which will handle the greater portion of the crowd from the vicinity of Bellefonte, is but a very short distance from the park.

The work of beautifying the park is now already in progress and there will be all manner of amusements there this season. On such occasions as the business men's picnic extra attractions would be provided. Since the event of West End Water company, whose mains pass the park, pure, fresh spring water will be piped to the park for drinking and domestic purposes, as well as for use in supplying water for fountains, etc.

In view of the fact that this country has not yet had an opportunity to demonstrate what they can do to entertain such a large gathering as the annual business men's picnic, it is belived that if the committee decides in favor of Mill Hall park this season their action will meet with general approval.

Competion is the life of Trade.

During the week our friend Willard the new merchant come out with a blazing advertizement saying "great reduction in stone ware, 1 dozen cups and saucers at 49 cents. Mr. "Ralph" who puts up next door saw the ad. and as he has been selling this kind of ware for a long time at 50 cents he put out a sign, cups and saucers 50 cents a dozen and two sticks of candy thrown in. Any old time you get ahead of the "dutch" you'l have to get up in the morning. Spigelmyer you can take a seat at the head of the class.

Chivalry To Cease.

It is said the Pennsylvania railroad authorities have placed a "ban on gallantry." No longer will white shirt waists and other finery of female passengers on the railroad be soiled by chivalric but unclean hands. An order has been issued that hereafter conductors and brakemen shall refrain from aiding the fair sex to board or leave trains, unless requested. Complaints of woman whose apparel has been soiled by over anxious trainmen led to the order.

A Freak Calf.

A few days ago a cow belonging to William D. Kriner, of Wellsboro, gave birth to a calf with two complete heads, two tails, seven legs and eight hoofs. The freak was dead.

The freak of nature was given to Mrs. Patterson who sent it to a taxidermist at Niagara Falls to be mounted. One day last week she received an offer of $400 for the curiousity from a manager of a museum at Niagara Falls Arrangements have since been made to place the freak on exhibition and Mrs. Pater on will share in the receipts, says the Wellsboro Gazette.

AGED WOMAN CALLED AWAY

Mrs. Mary Krider Died at Warriorsmark Tuesday

ALMOST 99 YEARS OLD

Member of the Methodist Episcopal Church for Eighty-two Years.

FAITHFUL AND DEVOTED MOTHER

Mrs. Mary Krider died at her late home in Warriorsmark May 14, at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Krider was born August 14, 1808, in Warriorsmark township, and for over ninety-eighty years has been a resident of that same township. At her death she was aged 98 years, 9 months.

Mrs. Krider was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Warriorsmark, since the age of 17 years, making her a member of that organization for eighty-two years. During this time she has watched the progress of three different churches with interest.

She has been preceded by two husbands, the first of whom was Jesse Mothersbaugh, which was as early as the year 1828. Later she became the wife of Henry Krider, who has also preceded her many years.

Although not being blessed with children of her own, she has been a faithful and devoted mother to eight children of her second husband. Mrs. Krider has always been remarkable active during all her years, ever ready to assist others but never thinking she herself was needing the assistance.

The cause of her death was due to congestion of the lungs which was brought on by weakness of old ago; also by the shock of a fall twelve days before her death. During these twelve days she passed through a great deal of suffering, but in the last moments of her useful life simply slept a quiet, peaceful sleep, or fell asleep in Jesus.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Looks Like "Black Hand" Work.

We have been reading in most all the out of town papers of the awful crimes being committed by the fiends connected with the "Black Hand" organization. The burning of the town of Barneeboro the burning of the Armory and Ward-Mackey building in Altoona and many others are laid at the door of this gang of hounds. Now it is coming nearer home. Dave Chambers of Snow Shoe had a team of the finest gray horses in Pennsylvania weighing between 14 to 16 hundred apiece and valued at $600 that died very mysteriously on Tuesday afternoon. The horses had been perfectly well and when stabled they were in excellent spirit. At four o'clock Mr. Chambers went to the barn and found one dead and one hour afterwards the other died. He knew of nothing that he had given them or that he had done that would kill them. He sent for Dr. Jones of Bellefonte who had a portion of their stomach's sent to one of the best colleges in Philadelphia to have the parts thoroughly analyzed.

It is thought by a great many at Snow Shoe that this is work of some fiends who had it in for Chambers and if the analysis turns out that the beasts have

Belongs to the P. R. R. Company.

The road leading from High street to the Pennsylvania depot along the railroad is private property and belongs to the P. R. R. Co. and they have a perfect right to close it up when ever they feel like it. A great many people are kicking because Potter & Hoy close up the street when ever they have cars to unload, with material for their warehouse. We inquired into the matter and found out that when ever they have business with the Railroad Co. in this way that they are permitted to close this road as long as their work lasts. So now you fellows may as well keep quiet about it, because there is no use of kicking as this is private property.

Drink Pineapple Juice It's Better Than Pepsin.

It has been discovered that the juice of a fresh, ripe pineapple possesses more curative powers than pepsin when the digestive organs are impaired. The pulp of this delicious fruit should not be eaten if one is inclined to have stomach troubles. The juice should be sweetened and drunk in moderation, and it is claimed that beneficial results will be apparent at once. In the southern countries where this fruit is grown the juice only is eaten and then when the fruit is perfectly ripe. As this cure for ailments of the digestive organs is neither expensive or disagreeable to take it will soon find many abherents if its virtues are what they are aimed for.

Nothing Doing Sundays In Altoona.

Mayor Simon H. Walker has come to the conclusion that he will enforce the Sunday closing laws this summer in Altoona and prohibit the selling of soda water, ice cream, candy and cigars. There will be nothing doing along this line despite the fact that some people would like to see it otherwise, says the Tribune of that city. Saturday Revs. A. E. Wagner and George Murry Klepper representing the Altoona Ministerial association visited his honor in regard to Sunday closing and they received the above decision of the mayor. Several merchants called to ascertain whether the Sunday closing rule was to be enforced and on learning that it was expressed themselves as being satisfied, as they wanted to keep their places closed, but lost customers by others keeping open and dispensing soda water and ice cream.

Disgraceful Scene On Train.

Last Saturday afternoon an extra coach was added to the three o'clock train over the Bellefonte Central in order to accommodate the extra traffic. This was used as a smoker, but as the regular combination coach was overcrowded a colored man and his family were obliged to use the extra. Before the train had gotton out of Bellefonte a number of passengers, who style themselves "gentlemen," began to uncork bottles of "hard water" as one of them termed the liquid hell fire, and began to pass the stuff around. It was not long ere the socalled gentlemen gathered at the rear end of the coach and disposed of the liquor. Reason was soon dethroned and the imbibers used language that certainly was only fit for the brothel or the lowest of the lowest of dives, and that in spite of the fact that there was a woman and her little child in the same coach. Long before Waddles station was reached the boisters were very visibly intoxicated. One of them, endeavoring to seek fresh air, lunged to the front end when the wind caught up his hat and wisked it off in a jiffy, lodging in a clump of bushes near the roadbed.

Evedently the conductor was powerless to handle them and so carried them to their destination, which was Alto siding. All the passengers in the forward coach were soon aware of the conditions of affairs and denounced it in vigorous terms as an outrage on decency. The Times is under the impression that there is a law governing such cases and it should be rigidly enforced by the railroad officials—State College Times.

Bellefonte has high Kickers.

One evening this week we had occasion to be out near the Reynolds Mill and while watching the flush at the furnace we saw three or four girls and several fellows trying to see who could kick the highest. First a fellow would kick then a girl would toss one of her big feet in the air, then another until it went the rounds several times. Tell you what girls you certainly did well, but my oh my it was unbecoming. You should be ashamed of yourself to be caught doing an act of this kind.

It Pays to be Decent.

Young man, why don't you be decent? Why not grow to manhood with honor and credit instead of a stain upon your character? It is just as easy. It is always easier to be a man than to be a rowdy Cigarette, gambling, etc. have had many a wrestle with boys before you came on the scene, and they have never yet been thrown. Don't get the idea into your head that you can turn the trick.

If you don't want to be decent for yourself, be decent for others. There is one heart whose sorrows should appeal to you. There is one who has faced everything for your sake, one who has to bear the cross for your foolishness. You don't want your trail through this world stained with mother's tears. The boy who turns a brazen face to mother,s grief never gets very far on the road to happiness. When he gets a little older you see his name on the police docket of various cities; a little later the dark shadows of stone walls loom up across his pathway—without honor, home or friends.

"Tis a sad picture, but it is painted every day in this town and every town in this broad land. The pathway of the transgressor is one of rocks and thorns. When you bruise your feet the world will laugh at you, just as you laughed at your mother's appeal. There is only one system for a boy to follow. Be decent. It always pays dividends.

Flowers In Bloom.

The beautiful weather of the past few days had the effect of bringing lilacs to bloom and these fragrant and pretty colord flowers may now be seen in every section of the city. Last year there was somewhat of a shortage in growing plants and cut flowers.

The Adaptability of Jimmy.

By Troy Allison.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

"I've waited for him long enough. I found a gray hair today." Elizabeth's voice was a comical reproduction of grief.

Jim Hartley interrupted the fascinating occupation of punching with his scarf pin a lace pattern around a leaf on the large rubber plant and looked at her reproachfully.

"You know you always have me to fall back on," he suggested placidly. "Of course I might not come up to your exact ideas of what a Prince Charming ought to be, but could you idealize me a little, eh, Elizabeth?"

"My dear boy, you don't seem to realize your—er—nose in the least! Now, could you imagine the prince with such—a feature? As merely a nose, Jimmy, I'll grant it's the noblest Roman of them all, but it would look as much out of place on my prince as—as a Falstaffian front would on Romeo."

He eyed with honest admiration the death's head and crossbones he had punched in the center of the leaf.

"Your dainty and aesthetic prince would be grieved to hear your slight coarseness of expression, Elizabeth, my child. You are not supposed to refer to anatomical subjects."

She sniffed her disdain and, turning her back to him, put her little worn slippers against the steam radiator.

"You are so terribly prim, too, and so—absolutely expected! I have known you so long that I know you through and through. There is never any room for speculation. Maybe one could forget about your nose if you would ever do anything—unexpected!"

He did—immediately, and she arranged her rumpled hair, her eyes blazing at him angrily.

"James Hartley—I—never would have believed it of you! And to think I've known you six years."

A little startled at his own recklessness, he picked up a paper knife from her writing desk and commenced operations on the abused rubber plant with assumed nonchalance.

"You wanted me to do something unexpected," he suggested mildly.

"Any man might have done that," with withering sarcasm.

"Elizabeth Lent, I am more than shocked at such an admission, for I've wanted to try it for six years and have been too cowardly!"

She grew more confusedly angry.

"Make a joke of it if you like," she blazed. "It probably serves me right for thinking there was one man that could be trusted."

He turned abruptly and took his hat from the top of the piano.

"You needn't say any more." His face was pale with anger. "You've had me at your beck and call for all these years, and you never would take me seriously. As for jokes, my love for you has been a huge joke to you always. I'm tired of it—and if I'm never to be taken seriously we'll put an end to it all. I apologize most humbly for my recent rudeness," and he went out, closing the flat door with an unmistakable evidence of temper before she could realize that there had actually been a quarrel.

She stood up mechanically and commenced rearranging the furniture of the little parlor. She broke off the demolished leaves of the rubber plant and started to the dining room to put them in the wastebasket.

Her roommate sat at the dining table working on a sketch.

"Jimmy gone this early?" she asked in surprise.

"Not coming any more," answered Miss Lent, with studied indifference.

Frances Carson ran the background of the sketch into the Grecian face she had finished and let it drop on the table a hopeless blur.

"What have you done to Jimmy?" she demanded accusingly. "He's the best fellow I ever saw."

"Is he indeed?" Miss Lent dropped the leaves into the basket with a gesture of superior scorn. "Glad you think so."

The other woman commenced washing her paint brushes and threw the spoiled sketch in the basket on top of the leaves.

"You have treated him shamefully all these years," she said, looking squarely into the other's wrathful eyes. "You have been dreaming of heroes and ideals and in the meanwhile have been taking all and giving nothing to the best type of man that exists. I only hope that you haven't treated him so badly it's beyond making up."

Miss Lent started toward the bedroom door defiantly.

"He'll get over it and come back in a few days," she said, with calm assurance.

But Jimmy did nothing of the sort. Weeks passed, and Miss Carson found that she need cook only one chop for dinner, for the other was never touched. Elizabeth grew thinner and paler, and the doctor finally looked worried when he asked about her cough.

Frances Carson had never been a believer in the doctrine that it was good policy to let things drift. She believed in the judicious application of a helping hand. She watched her friend's listless face one night after dinner as she sat in the Morris chair, her book lying forgotten on her lap.

"Elizabeth, I can't bear to see you looking so wretched," she said, rising energetically. "I'm going out and get something else for your cough. And you simply must make up your mind to go to Florida for the rest of the winter, as the doctor advises."

She put on her coat and hat and went, not to the druggist's, but to the nearest telephone booth.

"Is that you, Jimmy?" she called when she had got her number.

"I may be a traitress, a villainess and everything else that indicates the double dyed feminine conspirator, but I couldn't resist the temptation of calling you up and telling you that you are an idiot.

"Don't get huffy! I've just cause for complaint. Did you know that Elizabeth has been too ill to go to her office for over a month?

"I thought you didn't. The doctor told me privately that he didn't believe she would stand the winter unless she could be induced to go south. No—hush—don't say a word to me. I'm not going back to the flat for two hours, and she is really too ill to be left alone. If anything happens to her while I'm away, it will be your fault. I left the key under the hall mat near our door. Before I ring off, I'll tell you I found your picture under her pillow when I was fixing her bed this morning. I left the bed unfixed, and she doesn't dream I saw it. So you see why I am an idiot. Goodby!"

When Elizabeth heard the key in the door half an hour later, she spoke without turning her head.

"You've tried nearly every brand of patent medicine on the market, Frances. I only hope this one will not be bitter to take."

"So do I"— Jimmy put a chair in front of her and sat down as calmly as if he had only been out of the room fifteen minutes.

She started to rise from her chair, but fell back from weakness.

"You've come back!" she said faintly.

"I've come back to make you take the doctor's prescription," he said boldly, thinking of the picture under the pillow. "You need managing, Elizabeth, and I'm going to see what I can do in that line. You are going to start to Florida tomorrow afternoon, and I'm going with you to keep off the alligators and things."

"But you can't!" she gasped, her face flushing, her eyes fixed upon his in a dazed fascination.

"I can do all manner of unexpected things," he said, taking both her hands; "for instance, I'm going to marry you at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon."

He looked at her triumphantly, felt the nervous grip of her fingers, but never relaxed his gaze.

The color wavered over her face and finally covered the wanness that had startled him when he first saw her.

"Jimmy, I wouldn't be the least bit angry now if"— she commenced in a whisper, and Jimmy's intelligence was entirely comprehensive.

Impaled on a Buffalo.

Many years ago a son of an Iroquois halfbreed went out one day with other Indians to run buffaloes along the Red river, but he never returned. They found his horse and his gun and knife, but could not find the man. About a year later, as the Indians were hunting in another part of the country, a buffalo cow was seen which had something peculiar on her head. They chased and killed her and found that her singular head ornament was the pelvis of a man, one of her horns having pierced the thin part of the bone, which was wedged on so tightly that they could scarcely get it off. Much of the hair on the head, neck and shoulders of the cow was worn off short, and on the side on which the bone was the hair looked new, as if it had been worn off the skin and was beginning to grow out again. It is supposed that this bone was part of the missing halfbreed, who had been hooked by the cow and carried about on her head until his body fell to pieces.

HIDDEN DANGER.

Nature Gives Timely Warning That No Bellefonte Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of ediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the coming of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cures sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Bellefonte proof.

Mrs. Nancy Davis, of 246 East Logan Street, says: "I suffered a bad fall some years ago when living n Rochester. I thought at first that I had broken my back. I was unable to get up without assistance and from that time I suffered for years with a weak back and excruciating pains through the loins and through the small of my back. Sometimes I was completely prostrated and helpless. Doctors and medicines failed to help me and the pain continued until I got Doan's Kidney Pills. I took only a few doses before I began to feel better and when I had continued using them for a while I was thoroughly cured. My back regained its strength and the pain left me. I have had no return of the trouble since."

One Question Too Much.

The servant problem was under discussion, and "experiences" were being related. Several women stopped talking at the same moment, and the silence, which had lasted nearly two seconds, was broken by a young matron, who said: "But, ladies, that's all nothing to what happened to me last week. My cook left me, you know, for no earthly reason except that she told the chambermaid we starved the help. The idea! Well, I went to the intelligence office and after a long search found the girl I wanted to take Maggie's place. She answered every question to my satisfaction until I asked her, 'Why did you leave your last place?' Then she got red in the face, threw her head back and said in an angry tone: 'Because I wanted a change. Why did your last cook leave?' And before I could answer she turned away, saying, 'You'll not suit.' Now, isn't that dreadful?" And then all the other women told "dreadful" stories.—New York Tribune.

An Ancient Irish Custom.

In the district known as "the barony of Forth," in County Wexford, Ireland, is to be found a race of hardworking, industrious peasants living in thatched cottages with clean, whitewashed walls which by their perfect whiteness at once arrest the attention of the visitor. These people differ in many respects from the inhabitants of the other parts of the same county and have habits and customs peculiar to themselves. When a funeral takes place two wooden crosses are provided. On the way to the cemetery a halt is made at a certain spot by the side of the road. Here prayers are said for the deceased, after which one cross is deposited in a hawthorn bush or under it. The procession then goes on its way, and after the interment the other cross is fixed at the head of the grave. This strange custom dates from time immemorial, as the great pile of crosses by the roadside indicates.

How to Stop Runaways.

The policeman had stopped the runaway very neatly. Now, though puffing a little, he was quite calm.

"It's nothing to stop a runaway," he said as he wiped his foam covered hands. "It is like jumping on or off a moving car—dead easy when you know how. What you want to do when you see a runaway tearing toward you is not to stand still, but to run all your might in the same way the nag's a-going. Then, when it catches up to you, you grab the bridle and keep a-running. Then you are not thrown, you are not trampled on, and in a minute or two the horse slows down. I've stopped a dozen runaways without an accident. It's part of our training, and the policeman who would refuse to take a chance would be disgraced the same as a soldier who would refuse to fight."—New York Press.

Waked Him Up.

"Fare!"

The passenger gave no heed.

"Fare, please!"

Still was the passenger oblivious.

"By the ejaculatory term 'fare,'" said the conductor, "I imply no reference to the state of the weather, the complexion of the admirable blond you observe in the contiguous seat, nor even to the quality of service vouchsafed by this philanthropic corporation. I merely allude in a manner perhaps lacking in delicacy, but not in conciseness, to the monetary obligation set up by your presence in this car and suggest that, without contempering your celerity with cunctation, you liquidate."

Tree Fountain.

An extraordinary curiosity is to be seen in the Swiss village of Gunten, on Lake Thun. It takes the form of a natural tree fountain, the water flowing continuously from a spout high up in the tree. About twenty years ago the water from a spring was conducted through a shaft, and the supply pipe was directed through the cut trunk of a young poplar tree which was rammed in the ground. After a short time the trunk rooted, branches followed, and now there is a splendid top growth.

Friendship.

Friendship is a vase which when it is flawed by heat or violence or accident may as well be broken at once. It never can be trusted after. The more graceful and ornamental it was the more clearly do we discern the hopelessness of restoring it to its former state. Coarse stones, if they are fractured, may be cemented again; precious ones, never.—Landor.

Great Laughers.

The giant laughers have been men—Shakespeare and Rabelais. I do not regard Cervantes and Sterne as laughers. They are smilers. They are not jolly roarers and guffawers. They are not fat, rotund, jovial hilarities. They are thin, lean, ironic smiles. A smile is a diluted laugh. Sterne is a diluted Rabelais.—James Douglas in M. A. P.

Like Talking Shop.

A stockbroker whose mind is always full of business was asked a few days ago how old his father was.

"Well," said he abstractedly, "he's quoted at eighty, but there is every prospect that he will reach par and possibly be at a premium."

A Rebuff.

"Miss May," began Mr. Hoamley, "would you—er—be mad if I were to kiss you?"

"Not necessarily," replied the bright girl, "but I would certainly be mad to let you."

Treasures Found in Our American Forests.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of this and other countries. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., believes that our American forests abound in medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases, if we would properly investigate them, and, in confirmation of this conviction, he points with pride to the most marvelous cures effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach tonic, liver invigorator, heart tonic and regulator, and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, or indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even valvular and other affections of the heart yield to its curative action.

The reason why "Golden Medical Discovery" cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

To aid in healing old sores, or ulcers, apply Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve to them while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" to purify and enrich the blood.

Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve is cleansing and pain relieving. It destroys the bad odors arising from suppurating, or running, sores and puts them in the best possible condition for healing.

The "All-Healing Salve" is a superior dressing for all open, running, or suppurating, Sores or Ulcers. For healing open wounds, cuts and scratches it is unsurpassed.

If your medicine dealer does not have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock mail 50 cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive it by return post.

In treating all open sores, or ulcers, boils, carbuncles and other swellings, it is important that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery be taken persistently to purify the blood and thereby remove the cause of the trouble. It is in the blood that the great battle of health has to be fought. The ulcer and the sore are simply the scarlet flowers of disease, with roots running down into the blood. These roots must be eradicated or the disease will break out afresh. "Golden Medical Discovery" cleanses the blood of all foul and poisonous accumulations, pushes out the dead and waste matter, and thus purifies the entire life current. Disease in the flesh must die out when it is no longer fed by foul blood. "Golden Medical Discovery" effectively cures disease in the flesh by curing its cause in the blood.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, as is amply attested by thousands of unsolicited testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic drains, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration of uterus and kindred affections, often after many other advertised medicines and physicians had failed.

Nursing mothers and over-burdened women in all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by overwork, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating, restorative strength-giver ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless boon to prepare the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicate, nervous, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, gnawing or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retroversion or other displacements of womanly organs, from weakness of parts, will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully, and fairly persistently, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native, medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and appliances specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A full list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. Easy to take as candy.

If any one has any doubt as to the virtue of Foley's Kidney Cure, they need only to refer to Mr. Alvin Stimpson, of Willimantic, Conn., who after almost losing hope of resovery, on account of the failure of so many remedies, finally tried Foley's Kidney Cure, which he says was "just the thing" for him, as four bottles cured him completely. He is now entirely well and free from all suffering incident to acute kidney trouble.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time.

In Spring-Time Many People Need a Good Tonic.

Pe-ru-na, a Standard Tonic the World Over.

Mrs. R. Boyer Writes From 1421 Sherman Ave., Evanston, Ill., Concerning Pe-ru-na. Read Her Letter Below:

Mr. C. A. Landgrabe, Box 25, Coalburg, Ohio, Gives His Experience With Peruna Read His Letter Below:

From the bracing rigors of winter to the balmy warmth of spring-time is a climatic change that affects every one more or less. A great multitude of people, however, are so affected by the change as to require medical assistance.

If such people neglect to take a good tonic that will safely tide them over the trying weather of early spring, the system is weakened, the blood over loaded with effete materials of the winter season and the victim is rendered an easy prey to acute ailments.

It has been the universal experience of mankind that a spring tonic of some sort is necessary. All kinds of remedies, herbal and mineral, have been used. There is usually great uncertainty as to the operation of the average spring tonic.

Peruna, on the other hand, has been in use for so many years and in such a variety of climates and by such a multitude of people that its beneficial operation for spring ailments has become a practical certainty. Peruna can be relied upon as a spring tonic. It cleanses the blood by correcting the digestion, which is the source of good blood.

"If any one has reason to praise Peruna, it is surely myself.

"Last spring I became run down from the serious effects of lingering cold and several complications united in pulling me down.

"I could neither eat nor sleep well, and lost flesh and spirit.

"I finally tried Peruna and it did wonders for me.

"In two weeks I was like another person and in a month I felt better than I ever had before.

"I thank Peruna for new life and strength."

Aids Digestion, Promotes Sleep.

Mr. E. Arnold, Westerly, R. I., writes: "I wish to say a good word for your valuable remedy, Peruna. I have taken many kinds of medicine during my life, but find that Peruna stands ahead of all. It aids digestion, promotes sleep, quiets the nervous system, strengthens the throat and vocal organs. I have used it for catarrh and to break up sudden colds which is the best of all.

"I contracted a severe cold once which ended in pleurisy and left me weak, and every change of weather would bring a return of old pains. Peruna now vanishes all pain. I cannot praise it enough. I tell all my friends that it is the best medicine used for the ills of life. If any word of mine will lead others to try it, you are at liberty to use my testimonial in any form."

Gave New Life and Force.

Mr. B. F. Sellers, 3334 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Any man in my profession often has to spend the whole night with a tremendous strain on his respiratory organs. I have time and again gone home so worn out that I could neither eat nor sleep, and a number of my colleagues have been in the same condition.

"But Peruna has changed this. I found that after using a bottle or two my system was greatly invigorated with new life and force, and I can now fortify my system to endure a greater strain than was ever possible before. Peruna certainly is very necessary to me, and keeps me in splendid health."

Mr. L. D. Townsend, suite 2, 3 and 4, Century Bl'k, St. Joseph, Mich., writes: "I am grateful for what Peruna has done for my family.

"Six months ago my wife's health was very much run down, lacking vigor and suffering with pains in her head and back.

"A friend advised her to try Peruna, which she did with most satisfactory results. In a few weeks she was completely restored to her usual vigor, and is now happy, well and strong, thanks to Peruna.

"I have tried Peruna myself when tired and overworked and in every instance I have felt better within a day or two."

Headache and Backache.

Mrs. Nannie Hall, 12 Herbert street, Atlanta, Ga., writes:

"I write to tell you how much good your Peruna has done for me. I was so sick and nervous that I was almost dead. I could not eat nor sleep nor work any at all, but was in bed nearly all the time, and was almost a skeleton I was so poor. Now I can eat anything I want and it doesn't hurt me, and I can sleep all night long and get up and work all day. I don't have any nervousness now, but am happy all the day long. I sing the praises of Peruna wherever I go, and I believe it saved my life. I could not have lived through the summer in the condition I was in.

"I had tried many doctors, but they did me no good. Peruna certainly cured me. I had headache and backache and was very nervous. I could not eat nor sleep, and was almost in my grave. I tried your Peruna, and I felt better from the start. I took about five bottles of Peruna and the awful headache and nervousness was gone. I could eat anything, and my nerves are all right, and I have no more backache. I am well, and Peruna cured me."

Mrs. Elin Malmgren, 77 Cleveland street, West Manchester, N. H., writes: "Every spring and fall, for eleven years, I have been troubled with catarrh in my throat and nose and hoarseness.

"I am pleased to state that at last I found a medicine, Peruna, from which I received great benefit, and I will hereafter use and recommend it.

"I always keep it in my house in case of sickness.

"I recommend your medicine to all my friends and every sufferer as an excellent medicine."

Catarrh of the Head.

Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, O., writes: "My daughter Allie, after taking three bottles of your Peruna is entirely cured of catarrh of the head of two years' standing. We have used Peruna as a general tonic, as well as for catarrh, and are well pleased with it and recommend it to anybody who has catarrh. Anybody wishing any information can write to me."

"I had been a slight sufferer for a number of years, but paid little attention to it until the spring of this year when my suffering became very severe.

"I had pain in the head, back, liver, chest and other parts of my body, besides indigestion which caused me much trouble.

"I tried medical aid, but to no purpose. I wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice, telling him of my various ailments and he informed me that I had systemic catarrh.

"After using the first bottle of Peruna, I felt relief. I continued to use it until I had taken four bottles, when I felt entirely cured. I recommend Peruna to others."

Doctors Called It Consumption.

Miss Ella L. Matthews, Box 111, Hill City, Tenn., writes:

"I find much pleasure in writing you to let you know that I have been taking your wonderful tonic, Peruna. From experience I have decided that there could be no greater medicine in the world than Peruna.

"Several physicians had pronounced my disease as consumption. I had been a sufferer for several years, and was growing weaker all the while, until I could hardly walk across my room.

"I was so fortunate as to get a Peruna book, and after reading it carefully I decided Peruna was the remedy for me, so I began taking it. To-day my health is better than it has been since I had the measles ten years ago. I cannot express half the praise which is due to Dr. Hartman for his great and wonderful remedy and his advice regarding health. I do not think I would be living this day had it not been for Peruna."

Young Lady Conductors.

The twinkle of the annunciator, the jingle of the coins and the winking of the pretty girls, harmonized with the rumbling of the electric cars from morning to night yesterday, at DuBois when all the street cars of that city were in charge of young ladies under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Central Y. M. C. A.

Realizing the desperate shape the debt-free campaign is in, the DuBois traction company generously came forward to contributes 60 per cent of the day's proceeds to the Y. M. C. A.

The charitable offer was accepted by the association. At a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary, a number of young ladies, prominent in the younger social circles of the city, were selected to officiate as conductors on the cars and collect nickles.

This plan is quite a unique one and the novelty of the affair quickly won recruits from the ranks of the young ladies of the city. All of the cars of the line were "manned" by ladies. The ladies took charge at 8 a. m. and continued the collection of the fares until 9 p. m.

The regular crews of conductors and motormen operated the cars, but the ladies attended to their direction and the collection of all fares. The young lady conductors were chaperoned by members of the Ladies Auxiliary.

GROOMING COUNTS

But it cannot make a Fair Skin or a Glossy Coat.

Women with good complexions cannot be homely. Creams, lotions, washes and powders cannot make a fair skin. Every horseman knows that the satin coat of his thoroughbred comes from the animal's "all-right" condition.

Let the horse get "off his feed" and his coat turns dull. Currying, brushing and rubbing will give him a clean coat, but cannot produce the coveted smoothness and gloss of the horse's skin, which is his complexion. The ladies will see the point.

Lane's Family Medicine

Is the best preparation for ladies who desire a gentle laxative medicine that will give the body perfect cleanliness internally and the wholesomeness that produces such skins as painters love to copy.

DEATH OF OSCAR FETCHER.

Son of George Fetcher Suddenly Passes Away.

Following closely the sudden disappearance of his father Oscar Fetcher a young man 23 years of age dies at his parents home near Runville.

The papers all over the state have been publishing the story of the mysterious disappearance of George M. Fetcher an old soldier and a most highly respected citizen of this county who left his home several weeks ago and nothing whatever has been learned of his whereabouts.

Searching parties have scoured the mountain and valley, for many miles and their search has been in vain. We published an account of Mrs. Fetcher being called to Williamsport saying her husband was in a hospital in that city, she went to the city, but he was not there. The old gentleman's sons have not given up the hunt for their father, and since he went away they have been searching every day roaming over the hills and mountains hoping to find some trace of him. Oscar, one of the sons has always been a deligate boy and has always been a favorite with his father, and the boys love for the parent was greater than was thought In his delicate condition he has wandered the mountains and would come home tired and weary. Poor fellow could not withstand the strain that weighed so heavily on his mind and on Friday morning he had a fainting spell and before a physician could be summoned he passed into the other world. He leaves a heart broken mother and the following brothers and sisters, Boas, Harry, John, James, Alice, Annie, and Bessie.

The funeral occured on Sunday morning. Friends met at the home at 8 o'clock. Services were held in the Advent church. Interment in the Advent cemetery.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

He has figured up that in one thousand years from now men and women will only be about thirty inches high this will be a good thing, every thing will be smaller but our coal and ice bills they will remain the same. then people will be able to get up and down Water street. You will notice the borough built a road or street fifty feet wide and then permitted the telephone companies to plant their poles nearly in the middle of the streets

It is interesting to sit in a R. R. station and notice how nervous some people are when they go to buy their tickets, some seem to think if they don't get a ticket they will not be allowed to get on the train. There was four fellows not long ago in a certain depot and one asked for a ticket to Cleveland, the R. R. Agent asked "Via what Line"? of course he said "white Line" of course there is some men in town don't use any other Line.

As I said yesterday I came to town to attend court there is a kinder of a facination about court. Every body goes that can spare the time, but one thing I can't understand, why so many women take their little babies to anoy the visitors and it does seem that if they can't spend the time to go their selves they send their hired girls with them, why court will soon be as bad as church, babies crying most of the time. Not long ago where I was attending church even the dogs were allowed to walk around until the preacher said, "would the father of that dog please put him out." Everybody looked right at me I guess they thought it was mine.

I just happened into the Penna. R. R. station a few minutes while my dinner was digesting I was talking to Dave Stiner when a lady stepped up to the ticket window and after asking for thirty-two dollars worth of information said "please give me a ticket to Mt. Eagle, and she wanted it right away too.

Say did you ever know of "Devil Jno, Musser," well Jno. was coming down Lamb street a day or two ago and while near the Central station he met a lady and small boy she being a stranger to him he tipped his hat politely and said "beg pardon lady but will you tell me how old that child is. Well said she if you want to know he is eight years old hay? Well said John you might just as well tell me the truth, that child could never get that dirty in eight years,—and John walked on.

He don't think there will be more than two potatoes to the hill this year, but we ought to be thankful its no worse, like Sallie Brown when she got the word that her husband had been killed while working in the woods the message read your husband while cutting down a tree in some way was caught by a limb and killed she exclaimed "thank heaven its no worse."

Say I run the grist mill at Milesburg for a few years, one day a boy from out near Gum Stump was waiting on his grist and stood watching it run through so slow, said I, "John are you tired waiting," "no" said he "I ain't in a hurry but do you know our old cow could eat that chop faster than you can grind it," well said I "how long do you suppose she could keep it up," well said the boy "I gess she could keep it up until she would starve to death."

If man shall earn his bread by the swet of his brow, how do you suppose women are to earn their bread.

I just happened to town this morning and find a large number of people come in to attend court I think more usual on account of getting an "Intelligent Jury" we hear the Lawyers talk so much when they argue a case? I once had a case in court and found when through that I owed the lawyers more than the case amount to of course it was a "civil case" you understand, and the next case I think will be arbitrated at home to save time and costs both to myself and neighbor.

Say Bert, was you ever in New York, I was and when the train stopped there was fully fifty hacks there to meet me as they all wanted me to go with them, said I "see here you gol darn fools I'll walk, I'm from the Country near Curtin Station and I can walk but do you know there was the kindest littel fellow there he said "grandpa let me carry your grip" why said I "I'm only going up to the back and its right smart heavy you may carry it for me, I have not saw it since that day the boy run into a side door to get some candy and forget to "come out" now let me tell you last August I just took another trip down to New York for pleasure well before I started I went up on the garret and got an old carpet sack and slipped out in my orched and snapped off a big hornets nest hornets and all in my haversack, by the time I reached New York they were warmed up and ready for business, Harvey Stine was with me and he said "Jones what have you in your carpet bag, oh said I just wait and see. Harvey wanted to open it up in the train to show Ira From but I had it locked and said she would stay locked until I arrived at N. Y. and so it did and just before I got off the train I unlocked it, same lot of fellows was standing around I heard one fellow say there is old wiskers he is an easy mark, Harvey and I walked about a square when this same "guy" asked to assist me I said no "I was just going to make a deposit and did'ent keer to trust evry Tom, Dick, and Harry with that grip no sooner had I said this than he grabbed it from my hands and run ahead, stopped in a side door to get warm, well I guess he soon got warm at least he "come out" with hornets all over him and the police run him up the street.

I did'nt know that what I said about the Poo Poo gang would have such an effect on them. But this "white line" business will have to be cut out in Bellefonte, or I will be tempted to look into the matter.

A Valuable Agent

The glycerine employer in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also posseses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, anticeptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherrybark, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subducing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchial, thrort and lung effections, for all of which these agents are reccommended by standard midical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherrybark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure very severe, odstinate, chonic coughs, bronchial and laryngeal troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has perfomed its most marvelous cures.

CYRUS LUSE

Death Due to Nerve Prostration and Heart Trouble.

At his home, corner of Blair avenue and Thirteenth street Tyrone, at 5:20 Thursday evening occurred the death of Cyrus Luse, a respected and well known citizen of Tyrone. He had been confined to his room for a little more than one week, although for the past two years he suffered from slight paralysis which affected his eyes.

Mr. Luse was aged 64 years and 14 days having been born May 1, 1843, at Spring Mills, Centre county. He resided at Farmer's Mills until March 20, 1880, when he went to Tyrone. During the seventeen years of his residence in Tyrone he was variously employed. He first entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad company as a blacksmith, which was his trade, and for a time thereafter was in the employ of A. G. Morris and M. Long. For three years he was a member of the Tyrone police force. About thirteen years he was the faithful janitor of the First M. E. church, relinquishing that position only when failing eyesight compelled him to retire.

He was twice married. His first wife having died, on January 2, 1872, he was united in marriage at Potter's Bank to Miss Elizabeth Brindle, who with one son, F. C. Luse, of Elgin, Ill., survive him, together with W. C. Luse, of Altoona and Mrs. A. Zerby, of Berlen Springs, Mich., children by his first wife, and Miss Rebecca Sones, of Red Lion, York county, and Mrs. C. L. Grimm, of Madisonburg, step children. Two brothers, D. F. and A. P. Luse, of Centre Hall two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Shook, of Spring Mills and Mrs. John Rutter, of Lorain, O., and three half brotners, Perry, of Centre Hall; Lloyd, of Aaronsburg; and Malcolm Luse, of Johnstown, also survive.

Bellefonte Loses Hard Game.

Bellefonte Academy suffered defeat Monday at State College at the hands of the Kiski bunch. The game should have been won by the Academy. They out played their opponents at nearly every point. Fullerton pitched a splendid game allowing only three hits and having eleven strike outs. Clyde Fullerton his brother was on the firing line for Kiski and was touched for four safeties, including a three sacker by Rollins. Bellefonte lost the game on errors they having seven chalked up against them to Kiski's two. Lauden seemed the most proficient in this line having four to his credit. A very difficult catch by Whetstone brought forth great applause. The game was well attended by the College boys and the cheering for both sides was frequent. Kiski plays the State reserves today. Following is the summary of the game.

COMMENCEMENT NEXT WEEK.

The Graduating Exercises Will be Held in Petrikin Hall.

Beginning with Sunday evening the exercises incident to the closing of the public schools for the year 1906 and 1907 will begin. The program is such as will afford great pleasure to the students and to the patrons generally

The work in the Bellefonte public schools during the months that are now rapidly coming to a close has been eminently satisfactory to everyone concerned. It is by far the most successful year in the history of the schools and Professor Meyer is highly pleased with the high standard of excellency attained There has been a constant striving on the part of those in authority to raise the standard of scholarship and it is conceded by those conversant with the work that the efforts have been most satisfactory.

The large share of the credit for this fine showing is due to Superintendent John Meyer, who has been tireless in his efforts to advance along all of the educational lines. Since coming to Bellefonte he has made a careful analysis of the situation and has studied closely the needs of the local schools. With infinite patience he has labored to overcome the defects and place the school on a par with others of the State and it must be conceded by impartial observers that he has done superior work along this line.

One of the greatest helps that Prof. Meyer has had in his work has been loyalty of the teachers, and the board has been particularly fortunate in securing a high class of teachers, who have contributed their best efforts to the work in hand.

The work in the high school has been of a uniformly high grade and many of the troublesome incidents that marred the good record of the school in past years have been absent. This unity of work and harmony of action has been due in a great measure to the tact and ability of Principal Wagner, who has proven able as an instructor and disciplinarian.

The schools have advanced along all lines and with the assistance of the Board of Directors, which at all times has stood ready to act for the best interests of the schools, there is every reason to believe that further advances will be recorded in the near future.

The program for the week is as follows:

Much Pleasanter

How much pleasanter it is to swing in a hammock and watch a man struggling with a lawn mower, and think how much pleasanter it is to swing in a hammock and watch a man struggling with a lawn mower, than it is to struggle with a lawn mower and think how much pleasanter it is to swing in a hammock and watch a man struggling with a lawn mower than it is to struggle with a lawn mower.

Going Fishing.

Improvements Along the Bellefonte Central.

Not for many years has the Bellefonte Central Railroad been in as good conditions as it is today. The road leading from Bellefonte to State College, has been carefully gone over time and time again by Supervisor Thomas Rishel and his men and wonderful improvements are the result. A great many sharp curves have been taken out and recently Mr. Rishel finished putting in two arch bridges, 48 feet in length made of cement and are giving the most complete satisfaction, showing that the work was done properly under the Supervisors instructions. The heavy freight traffic over this road is growing every day. The many lime stone quarries up through this valley send over the Bellefonte Central many tons of stone and lime to the outside world, and supply most all the eastern markets. So the little road that seems rather small is doing its share of work along with the larger ones. Supt. Thomas is to be congratulated upon having men under him who understand taking care of the company's property, and upon the immense amount of business the Bellefonte Central Railroad is doing today.

Quietly Married at Beech Creek.

A pretty, quiet wedding took place at 4:30 p. m., Tuesday, at the residence of Mrs. George W. Packer, at Beech Creek, when her daughter, Ada Enlalie, was united in marriage with Guy H. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Frank Thompson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lewis F. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church, and was witnessed by a very few invited guests and relatives of the bride and groom. Miss Bess Wynn was bridesmaid and Allen Thompson, brother of the groom, best man. Miss Dornblaser, of Mackeyville, played the Medelsohon wedding march. After the ceremony delicious refreshments were served. The happy couple left on the N. Y. C. train east the same evening for a honeymoon in the eastern and southern parts of the state and their many friends saw that they were put on the train safely and sent on their way rejoicing.

Mr. Thompson is well and favorably known in Bellefonte, having been connected with the Howard Creamery for quite a long time. This paper joins in with his many friends in Bellefonte in wishing the happy young couple happiness and prosperity through life.

Any Sense in Town

Did you see Any Sense in town Wednesday? Well he was here and you should have seen him. When the Lewisburg train arrived in Bellefonte Wednesday morning we noticed a young man without any hat with low shoes on and his pants rolled up to his ankles and a coat that needed some molasses to cover the seat of his pants, get off. We asked what his name was and a party that knew said his name was Any Sense from the the Branch. That was all right, but my oh my, he certainly did look funny with that name when he started home in the afternoon. He undoubtedly had made the rounds and by the time he finished up at the last hotel he was pretty near all in. Here he had gone to work and spent his money for Boozerine and forgot to get a hat. The name suited the fellow when he was in this pigish condition when he left Bellefonte. Some fellows in town run around during the summer without wearing hats or caps. We don't know whether they have "any sence" or not.

Meeting Of The West Branch Doctors.

A meeting of the west branch Medical association was held in the Lock Haven hospital Tuesday and there was a large attendance of the physicians in this section of the state. Among those from nearby towns were Drs. S. W. Free, of DuBois Charles E. McKirk and J. W. Gordon; Philipsburg; S. C. Stewart and S. J. Waterworth, Clearfield; M. J. Locke and R. G. H. Hayes of J. L. Seibert and George Harris Bellefonte.

Drs. Locke and Hayes autoed from Bellefonte to this city to attend the meeting.

Lunch was tendered the association by the physicians of the Clinton County Medical association at the hospital, after which an interesting business session was held this afternoon.

A banquet was enjoyed at the St. Charles hotel in the evening.

Bishop Darlington's Brother Stricken.

Dr. Thomas Darlington, brother of Bishop Darlington, while making an address at the dinner given in honor of Bishop Potter in connection with the Episcopalian gathering at Sunbury on Wednesday night, was suddenly seized with an attact of valvular heart trouble and fell back into a chair. Bishop Darlington, who was to be next speaker, was quickly at the side of his brother, who later recovered at the home of Colonel Clement, whose guest he was.

We Trust Doctors

If you are suffering from impure blood, thin blood, debility, nervousness, exhaustion, you should begin at once with Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the Sarsaparilla you have known all your life. Your doctor knows it, too. Ask him about it.

You must look well after the condition of your liver and bowels. Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia, and thus preventing the Sarsaparilla from doing its best work. Ayer's Pills are liver pills. Act gently, all vegetable. The dose is only one pill at bedtime.

News boys on Again.

We notice the News Boy's are doing business on the Vallyey trains again. For a long time they were taken off for some purpose and the many passengers on this road certainly did miss the kids. A great many men going away on business like to have the latest morning news to read on the trains and this is about the only way they can secure papers, as the boys carrying the papers in town never get down to either of the early trains.

—Everybody is talking about JAP-A-LAC. Folks who have tried it say it is the best floor and furniture finish they ever saw. It can be obtained at Miller Brothers.

Coppering Caverly.

By Benson Graydon.

Copyright, 1907, by P. C. Eastment.

"I don't care what it costs," declared Caverly. "This man's father nearly ruined me once with his speculations. Now comes his son, who not only follows his father's footsteps in the street, but he clandestinely wins my daughter's heart."

"Those Newtons always were greedy," agreed Tait, fanning the flames of the other's anger. "I don't suppose you want to figure in this matter."

Caverly shook his head. "Not yet," he explained. "Time enough to tell him when he is ruined."

"Trust to me," said Tait confidently. "We will jolt the young man considerably."

Caverly went out chuckling. The night before Emory Newton had had the audacity to demand Belle Caverly's hand in marriage. He made light of the old enmity that had existed between his father and Caverly and suggested that Kentucky feuds and Corsican vendettas were out of fashion in New York. Caverly had ordered him from the house, and now he was scheming with Tait to ruin the boy.

For a week or two Newton did not suspect that his brokers were betraying him to Tait. Runs of hard luck were common enough on Wall street, and he simply seemed to have struck an unusually bad one; that was all. It was Belle who gave him the hint when they met.

"Are you having bad luck with your stocks?" she asked as they sat in the Hargrave conservatory.

"Who told you?" he smiled. "Since when did you busy your pretty head with stocks and things?"

"I heard father talking over the telephone," she explained. "I don't know just what he meant, but it seemed as though he had hired some one to make your stocks go the way you didn't want them to."

"YOU ASKED FOR THE INTERVIEW," HE SNAPPED.

"I see," he said, with a laugh. "I thought it merely a run of luck. I shall have to get even."

"I think it's mean of dad," she went on. "He won't let me marry you, and he wants you to lose your money."

"Don't worry," he replied. "I think I can teach him a lesson. There's the music."

They went back to the ballroom, and Belle forgot the incident. If it bothered Newton so little, it could not be very serious. But it did bother Newton more than a little. It explained to him how it was that when he bought for a rise his stocks fell. When he sold "short" in the expectation of prices being lower, they took an upward move. If it was Caverly behind the scheme, it meant a finish fight unless he wanted to quit the street.

Newton did not need to speculate. His income was ample, but he liked the excitement, and he had inherited his father's stubbornness. He would not be driven from the field. He took his losses placidly and smiled at every fresh blow.

If Caverly found his revenge expensive, he at least found it worth while. Through Tait he obtained from Newton's broker an accurate account of the losses sustained, and the sum was growing well into seven figures.

But even Caverly almost balked when Newton went in for P. and N. This was Caverly's pet stock. For almost a year he had acquired blocks of it here and there until it looked as though at the next election he might gain control.

Newton sold a put at ten points rise. To depress it some of Caverly's holdings must be offered at a lower price. It was a stiff fight. Most speculators held off, but there was some one who eagerly bought at the low price. Seven thousand shares were sold before Newton dropped from the market. He had promised to buy it at 97⅛. It had dropped to 81¼. He stood to lose, and Caverly chuckled.

"Can't even win on P. and N.," he jeered to Tait. "I guess that ought to finish him."

"Siegrist & Platt want that P. and N. stock," said the head clerk, interrupting. "We have none."

"Of course not," sneered Tait. "Didn't suppose they wanted actual delivery."

"Well, they do," said the clerk. "Mr. Siegrist is here himself, and he refused a check for the profits; wants to know if we keep a bucket shop."

"Send him in," said Tait in a husky voice. It looked like trouble. After Newton had been trimmed the stock had been permitted to rise a few points. Tait had supposed that a check to cover the increase would be sufficient. If Siegrist insisted upon the actual delivery of the stock and he could neither buy nor borrow, he would be expelled from the exchange for "bucketing" the stock. Before the broker entered he turned to Caverly.

"You will have to make good with your stock," he snarled. "If you don't, I'll tell just how it happened."

Caverly knew that if he offered stock with no intention of letting it go he was in the same boat with his broker, and in the end he had to send over to his office for the necessary shares. There was a heated session between the two men after Siegrist left, but that did not bring back the stock. The registry books closed the following day, and Caverly had lost control by some 2,000 shares which he could not possibly replace in time for the meeting.

That evening Belle was surprised to see Emory Newton passing through the hall into the library. Evidently he was expected, for Caverly looked up coldly.

"You asked for the interview," he snapped. "What is it you wish?"

"I wanted to explain something to you," said Newton. "As you are to be my father-in-law some day, I hate to see you lose control of the P. and N. I bought a put for 7,000 shares at 97⅛. In trying to stick me you sold to my agent shares that you were forced to deliver. If you want to purchase them back, they are in the market."

"Your agent," echoed Caverly. "Siegrist your agent?"

"My agent's broker," he explained. "I knew that my man was selling me out to Tait. By coppering my operation I have won double what I have lost. Siegrist is honest; besides, he didn't know."

Caverly sank back in his chair. He had been happy in the thought that he was ruining Newton. Instead Newton had been informed, and he had really been the gainer. Caverly was an old man, and suddenly he felt very worn and feeble.

"I think I'm getting out of the game," he said, with a sigh. "What is your price for this stock?"

"Belle," answered Newton. "She's worth every share and script in the market."

For a moment Caverly hesitated. It was hard to surrender, but in the end he knew that Newton would win in his love affair as he had won in the street. He was the son of Caverly's ancient enemy, but nothing mattered. He touched a bell, and the butler entered.

"Send for Miss Caverly," he ordered, and Newton knew that he had won.

A Hunting Dialogue.

"Do you know of a dead sure way to start a good fire with your last match?" asked a sportsman of his guide.

"Not a dead sure way exactly," answered the guide. "But I know a way that I'd be willing to count on.

"No, but a dead sure way," persisted the sportsman, "a dead sure way to start a fire with your last match."

"Well," inquired the guide, flaring up, "what is a dead sure way to start a fire with your last match? That's what I'd like to know."

"Why, let me see—why, you put some powder on a dry piece of birch bark and start it that way."

"But suppose you ain't got any birch bark nor any powder. How'd you start that fire with your last match?" demanded the guide, now grown angry.

"Say, what would I be doing starting a fire?" countered the sportsman. "What would I be starting a fire for? Just tell me that, will you? What does a man pay a guide $3 a day for?"

"What for? Why, to take along plenty of matches. Who'd expect anybody but a man from the city to go rambling around in the bush with only one match?"

And after the dust had settled it was found that the bag containing the expedition's supply of matches had been lost somewhere on the last portage.—Forest and Stream.

Joy in a Tramp's Life.

I have never emphasized sufficiently the tramp's disgust at having "to do time" in June. From May till November is his natural roving time, his box car vacation. In winter, jail, even the workhouse, is often more of a boon than otherwise. However, even thirty summer days, precious as they are on the "outside," pass away sooner than one at first expects them to, and then comes that glorious moment—thunder, lightning, not even a pouring rain can mar it—when the freed one is again his own master. There may be other experiences in life more ecstatic than this one, but I would willingly trade them all temporarily for that first gasp in the open air, and that unfettered tread on the ground, which the discharged prisoner enjoys.—Josiah Flynt in Success Magazine.

A Stammering Proposal.

A man who is noted for his perfect self possession and polished manners tells this story on himself: He bought a ring for his best girl. When he gave it to her he intended to say: "Dearest, here is a ring I have bought to adorn your fair hand. May the circle be a symbol of my undying affection for you." What he did say was: "H-here's a ring I bought for myself, and it was t-too small. Y-you t-take it."

ASSEMBLY OF PRESBYTERIANS

All the Churches in the United States in Convention.

FIRST TIME IN CENTURY

For the First time in 100 years the Entire Presbyterian Body was Represented in General Assembly.

SERMOM BY DR. IRA LAUDRITCH

Columbus, Ohio, May 18.—For the first time in over a hundred years the entire Presbyterian body of the United States was represented when the 119th General Assembly of the Presbyterian church opened its sessions at Memorial hall, at noon Thursday. The event was commemorated in the sermon of Dr. Ira Landritch, of Nashville, Tenn., Moderator of the Cumberland Presbyterian branch, which has united with the General Presbyterian church and by the complete reorganization of the various boards of the church and the union of the work, which has hitherto been divided. The two churches split originally on doctrinal questions, education of ministers and evangelization. These differences have been adjusted and the united church now has 10,000 churches and 9,300 ministers. At the opening session of the general assembly Thursday 960 delegates were present, representing 1,250,000 communicants. It is said to be the largest ecclesiastic body ever assembled in the United States. Late in the afternoon, a moderator was elected. Nashville, Kansas City, Dallas, Tex., Atlantic City and Seattle, Wash., are candidates for the honor of entertaining the next assembly.

Deafness Cannot b Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Apples May Be Plenty.

The apple trees in this section are now in full bloom and the trees present a beautiful appearance. From present indication there promises to be a big crop of apples, unless a cold snap appears or the blossoms are ruined by plight of any kind. The peach crops in this vicinity will be very short, according to reports from some growers.

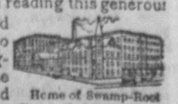
DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.



Home of Swamp-Root

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name Swamp Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and the address, Binghamton, N. Y. on every bottle.

Old Farmer Jones Says.

Daisy Stewart told him that they could not "April fool" him that was real summer

If Pennypacker thinks the State Capitol is worth thirteen million dollars and the other fellows thinks its only worth four million why in the duce don't they sell it to Penny for ten, they would both make money.

Cheap John was on the street the other day selling suits of clothes for three dollars when Francis Speer yelled out how can you sell them so cheap you must steal them, no said cheap John you see I get my coats from Dakota my pants from Pantsylvania and my vests from Vest Virginia, then Francis said "I did'ent know that."

By the way I happened into church not long ago and a certain big luberly fat man was taking a good snooze the preacher had just finished these remarks "my father and mother died not believeing as I do, and if you do not believe as I do you will all land in H——." Just then the old fat man snorted out to the top of his voice "Amen."

Say there is a heap of preachen now adays and when a man dies the newspapers tells how good he is and presents him with flowers. Don't you think it would be better to give him a few sunflowers while he still lives.

Say when I come to town this morning the first fellow I saw was Willie McFarland he said Bill Jones did you mean me in your poetry you wrote yesterday. Oh! no Mr Editor Willie would not kiss a girl.

When a man comes out of a saloon he is usually more offensive than defensive.

I met a smart Alex in town the other day and I said how is things; well said the smart Alex, yeast is rising, Bananas are slipping along and molasses is selling about three pints to the quart, I said I was looking for harvest hands but you won't do, if you were not raised in turkey you were in Greece.

Say I met a man in town tother day and he said Hello Jones your writing some for the paper I see you think you are going to break up these trusts, well said I no sir I have no "axe to grind" and that recalled a little instance when I was a boy. A big lean lank fellow approached me one morning and said Willie Jones has your father a grind stone? Oh yes said I pleased with his kind way of addressing me can I use it a little while? Oh yes said I; and would the little ma get me a bucket of water? I started on a run and brought a two gallon bucket of water now said he, would Willie turn the stone for me awhile? Expecting to get a five cent piece in return, quickly consented, I togged and turned and turned and togged till I had blisters on my hands still the axe was only half done then I thought might get ten cents and turned away until eleven o'clock then the man said now Willie I'm afraid you will be ate for school you better skip or you will get a thrashing not even thanking me for my service or the use of the stone, that was one lesson I will not forget, and when a man pats me on the shoulder and says I'm a good fellow I just make up my mind that fellow has an axe to grind.

John Sourbeck wants thirty cents per basket for strawberries when ours get ripe, what the English sparrows don't eat we will have to sell at five cents for a whole quart now is this discrimination? I want to obey the law.

Bert Taylor expects to build about 500 miles of state roads, Bert says there will be no capitol scandle when he gets through, the first thing we know Bert will be a big railroad contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gainsfort departed Thursday for Williamsport after doing some shoping Mr. Gainsfort will make the purchase of the flowers for that famous Hecla Park and will see that they are properly planted by the way, Mr. G. has a patent that he claims will burn ashes, he also is the Inventor of a railroad bolt that will some day make him rich.

Say do you know I was at church last Sunday and there was one hundred and seven women there, and there was just as many different styles of hats.

By the way you remember the scripture about "I would sooner be a doorkeeper in the House of the Lord" well a teacher was reading this only she said I would sooner be a "book-keeper" it did sound kind of funny.

I am coming down to town some of these fine days and hire one of them fellers that belong to the Poo Poo gang for a scare crow, they will be all right for that, now I need something for the cut worms and think white line will do the work.

There is a man not far from town that everytime there is a new arrival in his family he has to absent himself from his work, his absence is so frequent now that his employer has put him on half time.

Say do you know there is a girl out in Coleville that must have a large family, connection as she meets all trains, when asked if she was looking for friends, said no she just come to see her cousin off on the train. There is a good many girls in town must have a lot of cousins, say I never would marry such a girl as I could not remember all the different cousins she mentioned.

While driving down to town Finch Mcbtley come along with me and I asked him to go along to the Bush House for dinner but he said he did not like Mrs. Bush's cooking I told him that was the name of the hotel then he went along with me and we had a fine lay out.

My "Gol Darn" hens are all laying now, when eggs are cheap they don't lay high priced eggs I paid ten dollars for a trio this spring and I have more orders from my neighbors to exchange ten cent eggs for my full blood stock doz for doz than I can fill. Yes there is money in Poultry.

To many boys in town are carrying revolvers.

To many married women are running the streets flirting with men that ought to be at home preparing to celebrate their golden wedding.

He cannot see how a family living so near the creek in Bellefonte can always be so dirty.

He don't understand how so many men go to all gatherings wear good clothes have plenty of money and never work or have no income.

That a great many people think Francis Speer is "younger than he looks.

He knows of several cases in Bellefonte where a divorce would be asked if alimony was not so high, some men earning fifty dollars per month think they can get along with forty-eight if their wives can do with the balance.

He saw the town council fill out notices for all property owners where sidewalks are bad to repair them nothing like sparing for time, some people in Bellefonte have not yet shoveled last winters snow from their sidewalks.

He sees a good many men and boys loafing around because they can't run a man's business when hired to drive a delivery wagon or clerk in a store. They cannot go away to work as they could not earn their board, they had better help Water Supt. Ryan bury some of them water pipes then they won't have to ask the loan of ten cents every time they meet you.

Strange? when driving into market the other morning I got to town early but here right in town there was the old long wiskered soaks and boozers loafing around the hotels waiting for the bars to open so they could get an eye opener if some of the good wives of these men would use a cart-whip and make them build the fires before they leave home and leave the ten cents at home to buy milk there would be more happiness in some families here.

Now Mr. Editor if I have maid any mistakes in this here writing all right you don't need to print them but I feel goldarn smart cause we got the "dollar wheat" at last that Roosevelt promised me when he run for President, it was a long time coming and did not come till I had mine all sold. The millers said wheat was going down so I let mine slide when it was seventy cents, I did not altogether believe Roosevelt but now I know he is all right and the only thing I can't quite find out is how the millers make such high priced flour out of my seventy cent wheat why they want more for the bran now than they paid me for my wheat I think we had better have a petition signed and sent to the next Congress to have a millers commission apointed to regulate the price of wheat and taters.

Say Mr. Republican I thought I'd just drop you a line and let you know a few things my wife said I was to slow to write any thing but I told her things had to have time to devolop same as the Bellefonte Street Railway, she said she never heard of any such things and I just told her my grand-mother told me when she was a little girl she heard some men in Bellefonte talk the same way but she thinks now it had reference to Al Dale's tramway up at his Lumber job in Snow Shoe township.

My wife says I can't write poultry but here she goes:

Three was a young man they call Weeley
As fine as you ever will meet
Not long ago met a fair maiden
Right up on Bishop street.

And there was a man, Mr. Musser
Who declares that Weeley said this,
"Say I weally 'ove you
Now won't you give me a kiss.

It is all true, as I heard it
But from whom, I will not tell,
When Weeley looked up and saw Musser
Said, have you any rags to sell.

The man with cares or trouble on his mind should take a drive or a walk through the country now that spring is putting on her beautiful robe. "I'll tell you it's the only way! Unless you agree to run away with Jessy you'll never get her," Grandmother Lewis said energetically as she smoothed her silk apron. Millard, who was thin and every way of the correct form, groaned. "Run away! What from? And why?" he demanded. "Do you—does anybody—object to me? I'm sure Major Lewis does not, and as for Jessy herself"—

"Jessy is a dear, sweetly pretty, adorable young fool," the grandmother interrupted. "She has her head stuffed full of romance from the plays she saw and the novels she read at that tony school in the city. She was only a parlor boarder, you know, and my son John had no more sense than to go tell the head of it his girl must have whatever she wanted. She got it too. Such a bill of extras as John had nobody ever saw or paid before. I'm telling you so you may be prepared. The Jessy you'll see shortly is not a bit like the nice rosy girl I sent away. She tells me flat, to my very face, that it's wicked to be contented with the state of life wherein you find yourself. She also sighs and repeats poetry under her breath and has signed actor photographs all over her dressing table. Says money is vulgar and respectability stupid; also that she simply wouldn't love a man that everybody belonging to her approved.

"Pretty bad for you, boy. I've brought you up partly myself on purpose for my little girl, and even yet I don't despair of getting you. You also have been away. Can't you help us discover something that will justify us in forbidding you the house?"

Millard groaned again, shaking his head. He was a serious person, with only here and there odd grains of humor. Possibly one of the grains came on top just then. He sprang up as though galvanized, caught grandmother's hands and said: "The trouble with raking up a past, even a manufactured one, is that it sticks—you have to live always in dread of it. People will take your good deeds as jokes all right enough. Evil ones are quite another matter—also quite immortal. You see, I must consider mother and the pater. It would break their hearts to have tales told about me. And, even if you and the major said nothing, folks would be sure to imagine the worst. Indeed, they'd have to, seeing I have been almost a child of the house. So, if you please, we'll try another plan. Can you let me see those signed photos? I happen to know several actor persons who are just now out of jobs."

"YOU NEED NOT BLUSH, PRETTY ONE."

When he had looked over the pictures, he laughed again and went away, not to come near the Lewis house for almost a week. Jessy was first puzzled, then piqued. She had been prepared to break the childish engagement between them, and it was distinctly aggravating to have the party of the other part acting as though no engagement existed. She had seen Millard several times, but always at a distance and going quickly, as though great things were in hand. He had even sent her messages, hypercritical, yet rather cavalier, she felt, saying that when he came calling he would make her ample amends for the delay.

When he did come, Jessy forgot to pout, for he fetched along Percy De Bonne, the youngest and rawest of her matinee idols.

"Yes, I went in a lot for bohemia," Millard explained to her aside. "It's the only thing worth living for. I do wish you could know something about it. Maybe I can show you a little of it shortly. Keep it from our respected elders, but Miss Angel Rivera is coming to the inn at the end of the week. That will make us just a party of four. De Bonne actually remembered your name. That's something wonderful. He said he couldn't forget a girl who sent diamond studs in asking for his photo"—

"The wretch! How dared he tell?" Jessy cried, flushing furiously. Millard smiled indulgently.

"I see you have a heap to learn," he said. "Temperament, the artistic soul, absolves its possessor from petty restrictions. I shouldn't wonder if De Bonne actually proposed to you. It would be a sacrifice of his ideals, of course, but you'd bring him money enough to make him independent of those beastly managers and critics, and that's something even to a great man."

"Oh, Mr. De Bonne, are you really a great man?" Jessy asked saucily as the actor person just then lounged his way into the chair beside her. He fixed her with a steady glare and said in his deepest voice:

"Had you any doubt of it when you sent me"—

"Hush!" Jessy said imperatively, her whole face burning. De Bonne chuckled inaudibly, but leaned a little toward her, saying in a hushed voice: "You need not blush, pretty one. I have a real divorce, and my intentions are strictly honorable."

"I think grandmother wants me," Jessy said, with what dignity she could master, trying to rise, but De Bonne held her down. "I think you know what I came for," he began. "Of course a man of my type can't vegetate long in a dead-alive country town. I decided to marry you as soon as Millard told me how matters stood—that your money was your own. It's well to have these little things understood in the beginning. I am willing, quite willing, to trust you in the matter of settlements until after you are my wife. Being a minor, you could not make valid ones, as I take it. Your father, who is also your trustee, would not join in them. Let's see. You be ready tomorrow early, say 11 o'clock. Millard and I will call for you; then away to the parson. He has some absurd plan of waiting for Miss Rivera. I tell you, as of course I can't tell him, when you are Mrs. De Bonne"—

"But I shall never be Mrs. De Bonne. I hate you—like poison. And I won't run away — not with anybody — I wouldn't even with Dick Millard if he asked me—and I love—the—ground he walks on." Jessy burst out, twisting herself from the actor's hold and darting toward the long French window.

Millard, just outside it, caught her to his breast and hid her face there, while he soothed her tempestuous sobs. Presently grandmother came to lay gentle hands on her head and say: "Never mind, pet. We've sent the creature away. You shall never see him. If he dares to speak to you—well, your father and Dick will settle with him! Run away! You run away with him! Why, my precious would never, never cheat her granny so—not for anybody in the world."

"Not for anybody in the world. But you'll let me marry Dick—to save him—right away?" Jessy sobbed. "And you'll give me the biggest wedding ever in the county—and ask all the faraway kinsfolk to come and stay all night—and I won't have any wedding trip—and wear my mother's wedding frock. I want to be all like my own people—sweet and clean and homely."

"Bohemia! Don't you yearn for it?" Millard asked mischievously.

Jessy shook her head vigorously. "Maybe you do," she said. "But you had just as well not. You are to live and die at my apron string, and I shall never, never, never go to any such wicked place."

The Title of Admiral.

The title of "admiral" was not used in England in the earlier days. In fact, the better opinion is that it was not so used before the beginning of the fourteenth century. He was called capitaneus maris (captain of the sea), "keeper of the seacoasts," "captain of the king's mariners." The title "admiral" or "amiral," probably derived from the Arabic amir or emir (prefect), was used in foreign countries much earlier than in England and came from France. Prynne ("Animadversions," page 106) states that there were admirals and an admiralty court in England as early as the time of Henry I., derived from our ancient Saxon kings—Alfred, Edgar, Ethelred and others who had the dominion of the British ocean. None of these kings probably was more potent than King Edgar, who, possessing an absolute dominion of the neighboring sea, sailed round about it every year and secured it with a constant guard. These ships, being very stout ones, were in number 1,200. Some writers even affirm that there were 4,800 sailing ships.—London Nautical Magazine.

What Is a Fireproof Building?

In defining what a fireproof building is one should remember that a building that is of noncombustible materials is not necessarily fireproof; that a building that is of fireproof materials, but not of fireproof design, is not necessarily fireproof; that a building that is not of fireproof construction and design, except in part, is not fireproof, and that a building that is strictly and thoroughly fireproof, but filled with combustible contents, may have a destructive fire in it, but the building itself will not be wrecked or destroyed. Correct design means the proper application of incombustible, nondamageable materials and the arrangement of the parts of the building into such units that only a small proportion of the contents can be destroyed by fire.—Metropolitan Magazine.

A Hero.

A boatful of ladies and officers going to a picnic was swamped in crossing an East Indian river. A lady and an officer clung to an oar. "It is not enough for two," said the man. "Say goodby for me to the regiment." Then he left his hold of the oar and of life. It is easy to see that a romance might be founded on this, but these are the plain facts."

Had a Slow but Sure Gait.

There have been numerous disappointments in the outcome of some of the boys. We remember one boy in particular who was the butt of all ridicule from the boys of his age, and he took it good naturedly. He seemed to have no particular friends and herded by himself. His clothes always looked funny, and he had that awkward swagger over which the rest of us had much sport. No one ever thought that that plug would ever get anywhere or have anything. But today that plug is drawing a better salary than any two of the old gang. He has more money, more influence and more friends than any of the rest of us. The plug had a gait that was slow, but it was sure. He didn't appear to be a bit bright then, but he had a surface that took on a polish.—Westphalia (Mo.) Times.

Yet He Didn't Need Them.

He had been calling on a young lady for many moons; but, being backward, his suit progressed slowly. Finally she decided it was up to her to start something, so the next time he called she pointed to the rose in his buttonhole and said:

"I'll give you a kiss for that rose." A large, open face blush meandered over his countenance, but the exchange was made. Then he grabbed his hat and started to leave the room.

"Why, where are you going?" she asked in surprise.

"To the—er—florist for more roses," he exclaimed.

They Wouldn't Salute.

Black Jack Percival, who was a naval captain in the old days, once brought a cargo of Spanish jacks home in a man-of-war. He was in Spanish waters when the jacks were given to the United States by Spain and was ordered to bring them out in his ship. It made him angry, but he got the beasts aboard and sailed for New York. When he came through the Narrows the guns had been rolled back, and out of every port there stuck a jack's head. Thus decked out and without a salute, he came to his anchorage. The admiral commanding sent posthaste to demand why Captain Percival had not saluted. "I didn't salute," was the doughty captain's answer, "because I couldn't. I had two men twisting every jack's tail, but not a blanketed one of them would bray."

Trunks.

In the days of William the Conqueror boxes for carrying money and valuables were made in a very primitive fashion, the lids being simply half the trunk of a tree hollowed out; hence the name trunk. In an old Kentish church in England there is to be seen such a trunk, which is said to be the one in which the Conqueror kept the money with which he paid his soldiers. —London Mail.

The Nerve of Him.

"Mr. Slopay, I understood you have said that nothing could be more unsatisfactory than a meal at my table?" said the landlady.

"I said that, but I have changed my mind."

"Oh, then you think there are more unsatisfactory things than a meal at my table?"

"Yes, ma'am; two meals."—Houston Post.

THE WOMAN WHO COUGHED.

Catarrh had nearly ruined me. It had eaten away the partition in my nose; produced Asthma, Bronchitis, Rheumatism; ruined my stomach; in fact, gone all through my system. Then Grip finished me. I was a wreck; took cold at nothing; and coughed day and night. The doctors dosed me with opium and quinine. No good. Cough "cures"? Bah! Then Brazilian Balm renovated me. Killed every germ. Took 16 $1.00 bottles. Now I'm like a girl of 18.

CATARRH

To prove unquestionably, and beyond any doubt, that Catarrh of the nose and throat can be cured, I am furnishing patients through druggists, small free Trial Boxes of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure. I do this because I am so certain, that Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure will bring actual substantial help. Nothing certainly, is so convincing as a physical test of any article of real, genuine merit. But that article must possess true merit, else the test will condemn, rather than advance it. Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Cure is a snow white, healing antiseptic balm, put up in beautiful nickel capped glass jars at 50c. Such soothing agents as Oil Eucalyptus, Thymol, Menthol, etc., are incorporated into a velvety, cream like Petrolatum, Imported by Dr. Shoop from Europe. If Catarrh of the nose and throat has extended to the stomach, then by all means also use internally, Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Stomach distress, a lack of general strength, bloating, belching, biliousness, bad taste, etc. surely call for Dr. Shoop's Restorative.

For uncomplicated catarrh only of the nose and throat nothing else, however, need be used but

NATIONAL CIGAR STANDS

Important News for Smokers

Here's the National Cigar Stands' Proposition

Some 2,000 American druggists (the undersigned included in the number), have united in a new plan for conducting the cigar branch of their business.

Heretofore, each store has bought its cigars independently; usually from jobbers and in quantities necessarily small. The prices paid were loaded with from four to six unnecessary profits and were always on a small-quantity basis besides.

Now, these 2,000 stores have concentrated their cigar-buying power in a single, co-operative concern—the National Cigar Stands Company. These 2,000 stores and the National Cigar Stands Company which must provide them with cigars, becomes the largest single customer for tobacco ever known in the history of the cigar business.

Constitute The Greatest Retail Cigar Outlet On Earth

SOME N. C. S. EXCLUSIVE BRANDS
Unequaled in Quality for Price in the History of Cigar Retailing!

Black & White: equal to best 3 for 25c. Seed-leaf Havana . . . 5c
College Days: best domestic cigar ever sold at . . . 6 for 25c
Alice: a first-class domestic cigar, rivaling superior workmanship . . . 7 for 25c
Lord Carver: best Havana-Sumatra cigar ever made . . . 3 for 25c
Cuba-Rama: all clear Havana, usually sold at 3 for 25c . . . 5c
La Idalia: choice clear Havana—a wide favorite at . . . 3 for 25c
El Carvajal: highest grade imported Havana . . . 10c

The commercial advantage of a large purchasing power is well-known. The National Cigar Stands Company takes at once a masterful position in the tobacco market. It can, and does, own its own brands, control its own factories, make its own prices. In all this it merely acts for the druggists who own it, and each store gets the full benefit of all the advantages acquired and all the savings effected.

The saving in manufacturing and buying is almost equaled in the saving in selling expense. The distribution from producer to retailer being direct, there is no expense for jobbers or traveling salesmen. There is little or no rent to be charged on the sales of cigars by National stands and no extra salaries for salespeople.

In brief, the cigars come to the National stands freed of all middlemen's profits and can be sold practically free of expense. Between producer and smoker there are but two small profits instead of the usual four to six big ones. The result of this double saving is that

Never Before Have Cigars Been Sold So Close to Cost of Production

The proof of this will be found in the cigars now offered for sale. They give a quality never before known at the prices asked. The brands are all the exclusive production of, by and for the National Cigar Stands. Let them speak for themselves.

All National Stands are equipped with a new and scientifically designed storage case which constantly and automatically maintains the proper atmospheric conditions necessary to keep the cigars at their best.

It isn't a National Cigar Stand unless the National's emblem is in the window.

—We notice that a DuBois church is advertising a bloomer social. Is it any wonder we hear the cry of a spiritual dearth in many places when churches resort to such things to raise money? May the Lord have mercy.

—On Friday afternoon Col. Noll was agreeably surprised to find two swarms of bees. The Col. hived them and the little bees got busy making ready to do their summer work. This is the earliest in years that Col. Noll's bees have swarmed.

—Everyone is wondering what Leander Green is working at down at Curtin's Works. We found out on Friday, the blower is out of fix at the furnace and Leander is pretty well supplied with hot air so they have hired him as a blower. That is certainly a good job for the High Constable of Bellefonte.

—Saturday being pay day at the American Lime & Stone quarries, a good bit of money was circulated throughout the town. During the evening and even on Sunday a good many men were intoxicated. Wouldn't doubt but what as much money was spent for "boozerine" as was paid out for groceries.

—A little boy by the name of Calvin Brackbill son of Mable Brackbill living at the Purdue homestead at Coleville is very bad with diptheria. The house has been quarantined and every precaution is being taken to keep the desease from spreading. The attending physician says the worst part of the desease is past and that the young man will undoubtedly recover.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. Paul Dinges, of Williamsport, last week arrived in Centre Hall and remained for a few days with the former's mother and sister. Mr. Dinges is in the insurance business in Williamsport, and holds a position under the Underwriters Association. This is Mrs. Dinges first trip to Penns Valley, and while there visited Penns Cave, Pennsylvania State College and other points.

—Next to Christmas, Children's Day is the most important to the youth who is being trained in Sunday school and church. □ The rolling around of a few years ought not to develope neglect among the older ones for the precious children, whose faces beam with delight in reciting the little poem, a scripture verse, or singing a simple melody. Children's Day is for the children, not the sordid, disgruntled.

—Rex Barlett was out fishing the other evening with one of his fathers bean poles and a clothes line he had faked out of the back yard at home. We asked him where he was going and he replied, "after eels." We followed him up and watched the young fisherman awhile, and before ten o'clock he had caught four of the slickest eels you ever handled. One weighed four pounds. Everyone of them ware caught in the race back of Keichline's store.

—Carrying a snake unnoticed in the folds of her dress for several hours was the experience of Mrs. Kate Henze of York. Mrs. Henze visited Prospect Hill cemetery. While sitting on a tombstone to rest she noticed a snake near her but did not pay any attention to it. After getting home later in the evening she felt something moving beneath her skirts. Upon examination it was found that the snake had been carried under her skirt. Mr. Henze killed the reptile.

—A Lock Haven man states that oranges if used plentifully will cure rheumatism. He was confined to his bed with a severe attack of rheumatism some time ago and was informed of the medicinal virtues of oranges, so he accordingly purchased an entire box and ate freely of them, with the result that he was soon cured of this troublesome malady. The orange has certain acids which are beneficial to health and as the "cure" is not bad to take, it would certainly do no harm to give it a thorough trial.

—Harry Eberhart is quite ill at his home on Lamb street.

—Sam Haupt had the misfortune of breaking his collar bone on Sunday.

—Captain Williams men are papering and painting several houses at Lemont.

—During the past week or two a corps of engineers has been at work in Pennsvalley surveying on the proposed route of that once much-talked-of electric air-line from New York to Chicago. Of course even this fact is no assurance that it will be built soon, though it looks as if the projectors mean business.

—Mr. Joseph Ceader is one man in Bellefonte who is convinced that one does not have to die to get money on a life insurance policy. —With the approval of the board of directors superising principal John D. Meyer has cut out the last day entertainments in all the schools in the borough. This action was taken after careful consideration and for various reasons, one of the principal ones being that it so greatly interfered with the studies of the younger pupils during the last month of school, or else they were physically and mentally overtaxed. Of course this does not conflict with the regular High School commencement exercises.

—Twenty "dagos" arrived in Bellefonte Wednesday morning and were taken to Gatesburg to work in the ore banks.

—"Chim pangie" and "Dish pan" the two chinese laundrymen have pulled up stakes and left Bellefonte. They will locate at Emporium.

—Lawrence C. Godfrey, Phisical Director of the Y. M. C. A. and his "hiking club," walked to State College on Monday in two hours and forty minutes and returned in two hours and thirty minutes. Good exercise boys, keep it up.

—On Saturday evening Norman Kirk attended a festival at Snow Shoe Intersection and he said the girls living in that part of the county certainly would make good wives as they can bake splendid cake. Norman made quite a hit up there among those fair country maidens.

—Grant Charles the popular young clerk at the Hotel Bush rode his pretty little Scotch pony down from Boalsburg on Monday and has the animal stabled at the Palace livery. It is certainly a little beauty and should bring a right smart sum of money, that is if he should want to sell it.

—A certain man living on Bishop street had better stop whiping his wife and mother or some of these fine days he will be visited by a delegation of citizens and given a taste of a cart whip and treated to a coat of tar and feathers. Now old fellow let this be a warning to you. The Bellefonte people will not stand for any thing like that—nuff said at present.

—The statement is made by the officers of the local Young Men's Christian Association, that the subscriptian lists now being circulated are for current expences only. The indebtedness of the association was fully provided for last year. The yearly expense of conducting the work will amount to about $3,000—and to provide for this yearly expense liberal contributations from our citizens will be needed.

—On Sunday we visited the home of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Reish near Pleasant Gap and partook of a most delightful country dinner. Dr. Reish has recently built a beautiful home along the road leading to Zion and has it fixed up as comfortable as can be. Mrs. Reish and daughters are pleasant ladies and know how to entertain their friends, at least we were made to feel perfectly at home, and on the side—they are splendid cooks.

—There should be a grand gigantic effort on the part of the citizens of Bellefonte to raise the money necessary to put the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. out of debt. The Y. M. C. A. is an industrial plant—devoted to the manufacture of better men and like any other industry could do more effective work if entirely out of debt. Boost the enterprise along by contributing your share and getting some one else to pledge their support.

PROMISING YOUNG LIFE ENDED.

Ensign Alfred T. Brisbin has Passed Away. Very Sad Death.

Alfred Terry Brisbin died on Tuesday at Guantanamo Cuba. He was an Ensign on the United States Steamer Tacoma that was doing service along this Island

He was a brother of Miss Kathryne Brisbin, a nephew of Colonel and Mrs. Jackson L. Spangler and Mrs. Rachael Harris of Bellefonte. He entered the United States Naval Academy at Annopolis from Pennsylvania in 1899 and graduated with honors in 1903. He was considered one of the brightest young Naval Officers in the Navy and his future would have been one of success had he of lived.

Ensign Alfred Terry Brisbin was a son of the late General and Mrs. James Brisbin he was born in Idaho and was twenty-four years old. He leaves to mourn his death two brothers and five sisters, namely, Winfield, John, Caroline, Margaret, Kathryne, Blanche, and Daisy.

The body will be brought to Bellefonte for interment.

Every young person in Bellefonte knew Alfred Brisbin. We can remember him from the time he was a little fellow wearing knee pants, what a kind, lovable little boy he was, always so polite and manly. Every one who knew him could not help but be his friend. He had a kind, sweet disposition, and no matter where you would meet him he was always the same. Having been raised by Colonel Spangler he secured a most excellent education and was considered a very bright student in school. Through the influence of Mr. Spangler he was appointed from Pennsylvania to the Naval Academy at Annopolis and while there he retained the same good habits he had in old Bellefonte and was loved by all his class mates.

It is hard to believe that we shall never see him again in this life. So let us all remember him as he use to mingle as one among us-the little light haired blue eyed fellow that we all loved.

The young folks of the town have greatly enjoyed this place of amusement and no doubt will feel sorry to know that Mr. Taylor will not have it open all summer. But it is better to close down when the excitement is at a high pitch than to wait until everyone grows tired of the place.
